Humanitarian Aid

dear world,

if i'm just a walking sac of chemicals, then there's no such thing as miracles and caring isn't caring; just synapses flaring—so tell me, why should i care?

movies end happily, but i can't for the life of me understand—if God is dead, what's the hurry? why this cumbersome worry? there's no referent and nothing is definite; so do as you please; forget poverty, education, disease.

please tell me why should I care; pack my bags and go over there; pay plane, bus and taxi fare? so what if children don't eat and people can't walk down the street without rape, AIDS, pregnancy to meet?

i get the green thing. i have to live in this space with all the rest of this evolving race. but there's no Telos so Darwin tells us-no meaning in our beginning; no meaning in our end-so why should i care?

because apparently, we ain't goin' nowhere.

so dear world,

i decided i don't care. but i can't. i mean, just listen to this rant. there's care there. care's there from the start, presupposing Science and Art; care recessed, repressed in my bleeding heart.

things aren't the way they're supposed to be, and the Story of Biology is not sufficient they say we're here on accident… but i need more. i need more in order to account for this life as we live it. look around and see people caring, friend and neighbor sharing-poverty and injustice repairing. there's care there... but, from where?

people don't love wholly right—even when striving with all our light. we withhold, we withdraw, we fight. we harbor anger; we brandish pride; we've all of us murdered and lied; selfishly denied truth, justice, mercy.

and yet… there's Care there. it echoes in our tomes, recalling to our breath and bones our Original Shimmering Start, pulsating, all along, in our heart.

Originally published at Renea's blog.

© 2010 Renea McKenzie