Introducing Probe's New 2020 Survey: Religious Views and Practices of American Adults

Our new 2020 survey looks at Americans ages 18 through 55 from all religious persuasions. The survey reveals a striking decline in basic Christian religious beliefs and practices over the last ten years. From a biblical worldview to doctrinal beliefs and pluralism to the application of biblical teaching to sexual mores, Americans applying biblical teaching to their thinking has dropped significantly. The greatest level of decline is found among Born Again Protestants.

Over the next months, we will be adding new articles on this survey at a rate of about one per month. Please check back regularly to view the latest topics.
